articles in the Westminster Review for July, 1861, that cannot fail to arrest the attention of the political philosopher. One is a review of a late work of John Stuart Mill, on "Representative Government;" and the other presents an outline of the current of thought in Mr. BUCKLE's second volume of the "History of Civilization in England." The speculative theologian will find food for hought and reflection in the article on the "Life and Letters of Schleiermacher," and in that on "Christian Creeds and their Defenders." The latter has some pretty severe, and sometimes rather biting remarks on those who have decried the "Essays and Reviews."

The "Salmon Fisheries of England and Wales," and "Equatorial Africa and its Inhabitanta," contain much valuable information The latter containing, as it does, a summary of the most recent explorations, is deeply interesting to those who are fond of researches into the condition of the earth and its inhabitants. It regions hitherto unvisited by civilized man. The article headed "Cotemporary Litera-

The Westminster is re-published by LEONARD Scorr & Co., New York, who also re-publish the London Quarterly, the Edinburgh Review, the North British Review, and Blackwood's Magazine; each singly at $3 a year; any two at $5, and the whole at $10 a year. Sr. Louis, Aug. 3 .-- The Evening News learns from a well informed citizen of Southwestern Missouri, who possesses a peculiar facul-ty for acquiring knowledge of the plans of the secessionists in that region, that their real ob-ject is not to attack Cairo or Bird's Point, but to make a desperate attempt to secure possession of St. Louis.

of St. Louis.

There is a strong rebel force under General Pillow at New Madrid, Missouri, another at Pocahontas, Arkansas, believed to be under command of McCulloch, and another in Mississippi county, Missouri, under Jeff. Thompson.

The plan is to keep up a constant threat of an attack on Cairo and Bird's Point, so as to keep the Federal troops there employed; menace General Lyon in the Southwest by threats of an attack from Price and Rains, while the forces at New Madrid and Pocahontas will effect a junction at Pilot Knob, and from there march on St. Louis, take it, reinstate Jackson, and with this city as a basis of operations, wrest Missouri rom the Union.
